Honourable James R. Chabot
Provincial Secretary and
Minister of Government Services
Parliament Buildings
Victoria, B.C.
V8V 1X4

Dear Mr. Chabot:

On behalf of the Board of Directors
it is my pleasure to submit the seventh
Annual Report of the British Columbia
Heritage Trust, for the year ending
March 31, 1985.

Respectfully submitted,

A handwritten signature in black ink, reading "Michael Young". The signature is fluid and cursive, with a long horizontal stroke at the end.

Michael Young
Chairman

The logo for the British Columbia Heritage Trust. It features the words "BRITISH COLUMBIA" in a small, sans-serif font above the word "Heritage" in a large, elegant, cursive script. Below "Heritage" is the word "Trust" in a similar cursive script, but smaller. The entire logo is enclosed in a thin rectangular border.

Chairman's Message

It is my pleasure to present the Annual Report of the British Columbia Heritage Trust for the 1984/85 fiscal year.

The role of the British Columbia Heritage Trust over the past six years has evolved and changed. In the past year we have had to make increasingly difficult choices on how to fulfill our objectives, given our limited financial resources.

One decision that has been controversial, but one which the Trust has firmly adhered to, is the policy regarding the moving of heritage buildings. When a historic building is moved, it loses its integrity of setting and its "sense of place and time", important aspects of the historic character of a building. Often the original site and its relationship to the historical structure is as important as the building itself. For this reason, the Trust has established a policy that it will not assist in any way with the moving or the restoration of a relocated building.

As the public's awareness of heritage and a concern for conservation has developed, the Trust has responded by meeting with local community groups to provide a forum for discussion of heritage projects.

Some highlights of the past year are the following:

- A new program has been initiated relating to the Expo 86 theme of transportation. The history of British Columbia is directly tied to the opening of transportation routes, and its geography has historically necessitated a dependence on all forms of transportation. It is with this in mind that the Trust will fund projects tied to Expo '86. Only objects that have a demonstrable historic impact on British Columbia (i.e., it was the first, last remaining example of its type) will be considered.
- The Student Employment Program offered a diverse range of projects, and staff were enthused by the students' dedication to their projects. The directors felt that several of the projects pioneered new areas of research, the reports of which will be published in the near future.
- The Historical Archaeology Program is now committed for three years. The study of land-based fur trade will be undertaken by the Archaeology Department of Simon Fraser

University and the History Department of the University of British Columbia. This major research study will greatly add to our knowledge of early northern settlement.

- The Heritage Area Revitalization Program has greatly expanded, and it is gratifying to see the character of the communities of Nanaimo, Prince Rupert, Fernie, Nelson and Greenwood being preserved. This cooperative venture with the municipality and property owners and the Trust to restore these main streets has been developed over several years.
- This year the Trust prepared a mobile display, "Heritage Conservation: A Community Endeavour", featuring colour photos with text relating to heritage sites throughout British Columbia. It is our hope it will stimulate awareness of the preservation of our heritage and encourage protection of heritage property in British Columbia. Requests for this display from communities throughout the province numbered over 300. It is now travelling throughout the province, and a new schedule will be established in December of each year.

This annual report covers the grants awarded by the British Columbia Heritage Trust in the 1984/85 fiscal year, and it is important to acknowledge that the primary source of Trust endowment is the British Columbia Lottery Fund.

As Chairman, I must acknowledge Trust and Heritage Conservation Branch staff. I have been impressed by the quantity and diversity of work they undertake. They are to be commended for their enthusiasm and dedication.

On behalf of current and past Board members I would like to thank most sincerely Lawrence Killam and Martin Segger, whose terms as Trust directors ended in 1984. They have both left a lasting imprint on the work of the Trust. I thank them for their dedication to the work of the Trust and to the heritage of British Columbia.

The new directors are Charles Nash of Vancouver and Admiral Michael Stirling of Victoria, each of whom bring to the board a new perspective and many years of experience.

As the Trust completes its seventh year, we can review a year of difficult decisions, but feel satisfied we have met the challenge. It is, however, most important to remember that it is from the local communities in the province that the initiative and commitment for heritage projects originates. Though the Heritage Trust's assistance is vital, it is this commitment of time, energy, enthusiasm, and labour that ensures the preservation of our heritage. We shall, over the next few years, encounter new hurdles; I am sure we can meet them with a positive, cooperative and creative approach.

Michael Young
Chairman

Minister's Message

Heritage conservation has an impact on all our lives. It offers us a link with our past and a bridge to the future. It is this appreciation and respect for the past that enables British Columbia to maintain its unique identity.

It is gratifying for me, as Minister responsible for heritage conservation, to follow the work of the Trust. The diverse programs it offers to communities throughout this province enable us all to participate in preserving our heritage.

I congratulate the directors and the staff of the Trust for the work they have done this past year, and I look forward to new initiatives in the coming year.

Introduction

The Heritage Conservation Act of 1977 (now known as RSBC 1979) established the British Columbia Heritage Trust. In essence, this statute empowers the Trust to support, encourage and facilitate the conservation and maintenance of heritage property in the province.

The Trust achieves this objective in two ways: the first, by providing grants; the second, by promoting an understanding and appreciation of our unique heritage and the need to ensure its preservation.

As the general public's awareness of British Columbia's heritage increases, so does the demand for assistance from the Trust. We endeavour to obtain from each local council the heritage priorities for its community. It is this unique cooperation of agencies that ensures a cohesive approach to heritage conservation in the province. The Board of Directors of the Trust meets regularly throughout the year to consider grant applications. In an attempt to understand community concerns, the Trust, whenever possible, holds meetings in the various areas of the province.

During the 1984/85 fiscal year the directors met in Vancouver, Parksville, Osoyoos, Smithers, Victoria and Surrey. The directors welcome the opportunity to meet with municipal councils and heritage groups to discuss issues pertinent to each community. In Vancouver, the Trust met with the past Chairman J.V. Clyne. This offered an opportunity to review the involvement of the Trust and its programs in its six years of existence. In Parksville, the Trust met with the District 69 Historical Society prior to the Heritage Society of B.C. conference in Nanaimo; this offered another forum for discussion.

The Heritage Area Revitalization Program in Greenwood was the main topic in discussions between Mayor Reets and Council and the Trust Board. The directors met with Mayor Frost and members of his council in Osoyoos to discuss heritage issues in the area and the major restoration of the Grist Mill at Keremeos. Then it was on to Keremeos to meet with the South Similkameen Historical Museum Society and to review the work on the water wheel and flume at the Grist Mill.

The Trust meeting in Smithers focussed on the recently-completed restoration of the Central Park Building and the other heritage issues facing this community. In addition, the directors met local heritage groups in Kitimat. At the Victoria meeting, the directors met with Mayor Couvelier, members of council and heritage groups from Saanich. In Surrey, mayor and council members discussed with the Trust the restoration work needed on their recently-acquired Ward Marina.

Over the year, the Trust has been concerned with the viability of undertaking ambitious heritage projects in difficult economic times. It is, however, gratifying to see that, through the dedication of local community groups and the support of local councils, there are still many successful projects being completed that ensure the preservation of our past.

During 1984/85, 133 grants were awarded in the following categories:

Publications Assistance	25
Planning and Inventory	12
Scholarship	3
Building Restoration	14
Heritage Area Revitalization (HARP)	1
Religious Buildings Restoration	6
Historical Archaeology	8
Student Employment	42
Commemorative Monuments	2

As stated previously, the Trust is primarily a granting agency offering financial assistance to local government bodies and heritage societies. It also initiates a variety of projects designed to raise the public awareness of heritage conservation. This year the Trust developed a display entitled "Heritage Conservation: A Community Endeavour" that will travel throughout the province. A series of twenty double-sided panels reflect the work done at the community level, with the financial assistance of the British Columbia Heritage Trust.

The Student Employment Program offered the opportunity for approximately 60 students to be hired by local community groups to undertake heritage projects in the communities.

The Trust assisted with a cost-shared venture in the Queen Charlotte Islands (a partnership of the Haida Band Council, Petro-Canada and the Trust) to undertake an inventory of prehistoric and historic sites in Kunghit Haida Territory.

We welcomed visitors to Trust offices in Victoria, over the past year. Sir James Stormouth Darling, the former Director of the National Trust for Scotland, and Lady Darling were visitors to British Columbia in 1984. Through this visit a series of program links were made by the two agencies.

Publication Assistance

The Trust supports the publication of material pertaining to the heritage of the province. These publications should seek to improve public awareness of British Columbia's urban and rural heritage, promote its preservation, or provide information for laypeople and professionals in conservation techniques.

Funds are for actual publishing costs. The publication must be at the manuscript stage, and applicants who are not publishing companies should have completed arrangements for publication and distribution.

Projects eligible for support must fall within the following categories:

- local and regional histories
- thematic monographs
- special issues of periodicals
- technical handbooks
- oral histories

Publications receiving support from the Trust during this fiscal year include the following:

Planning and Inventory

This program is intended to assist municipalities, villages, towns and regional districts with preliminary or comprehensive surveys of heritage buildings, and historic and prehistoric sites. The first step in any heritage conservation program is to identify the nature and extent of the heritage resources to be conserved. Without such identification a realistic heritage conservation program cannot be implemented.

Before beginning any survey work, it is important to ask for what purpose the data will be used. Without a clearly defined set of goals and objectives, the possibility always exists of collecting data which is not very useful, while ignoring that which is useful.

The purpose of the survey and inventory process may be defined broadly as the examination of the total heritage resources within a defined program area and the identification of significant physical resources which may, after intensive analysis, prove to be of heritage importance to the area.

The results of a survey and inventory form the basis for making sound judgements in planning.

Ohiaht Ethno-Archaeological Survey	$20,000.
Ohiaht Band Council, Bamfield A detailed survey of archaeological sites in the Bamfield area of Barkley Sound, including a public program for residents and visitors to the area.

Scholarships

The British Columbia Heritage Trust Scholarship Program offers a $7,500 award annually in each of the following fields: British Columbia Archaeology, British Columbia Architecture, British Columbia History or Archival Management. Each scholarship is dedicated to the memory of an outstanding British Columbian who, in his own field, contributed greatly to the understanding and conservation of this province's unique heritage.

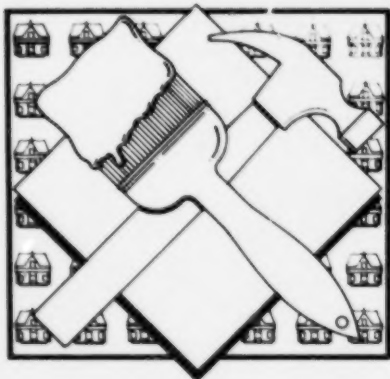

Charles Borden has rightfully been called the "Father of British Columbia Archaeology". In 1949, he initiated an academic program in archaeology at the University of British Columbia. Working extensively in the southwestern corner of the province, Dr. Borden established a 12,000-year sequence of human occupation.

Peter Cotton was a gifted restoration architect and a leader in his field. His restoration projects included, among others, Richard Carr House, Craigflower Manor and the exterior of St. Andrew's Cathedral in Victoria. British Columbia owes a great deal to this pioneer of heritage restoration.

Willard Ireland was well known for his popularization of provincial history. As a writer and a teacher, Dr. Ireland's contributions to the identification, interpretation and preservation of historic resources of British Columbia are incomparable.

Building Restoration

The intent of this grant program is to assist with the exterior restoration of designated buildings owned by a municipality, regional district or non-profit heritage society. All projects must have as a primary objective restoration with the aim of historical accuracy.

The Trust may provide funds of up to 50 per cent of the exterior restoration costs. In most cases, these grants should be considered a one-time only award. The maximum grant is $50,000; maintenance and operating costs will not be funded under this program. It should be noted that the Trust will not assist financially with the moving or restoration of relocated heritage buildings.

Heritage Area Revitalization

Through this program the British Columbia Heritage Trust assists communities with the restoration of well-defined networks of streets which are normally accessible to the public. Buildings which were important in the early development of these communities, and which have significant visual impact, are a necessary part of this type of restoration. The Trust is prepared to commit funding for projects of up to three years' duration and requires that matching funds be committed.

When proposals are submitted, it is essential that applicants demonstrate support from the community at large.

Trust monies may be used for:

- planning and research
- design services of specialists, such as architects and engineers, required for each project
- restoration and cleaning of historic building facades, monuments and signs

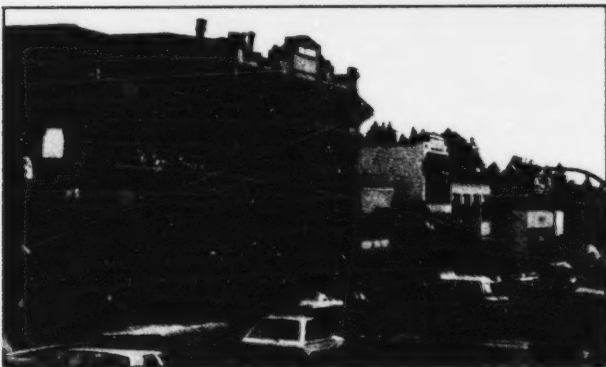

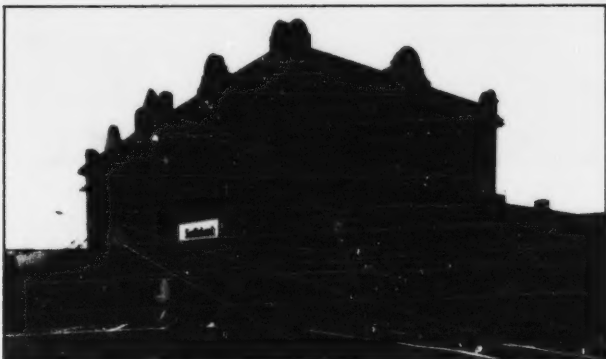

- interpretation, placement of plaques, kiosks and other features which assist in the appreciation of the area's heritage value
- alterations to facades of other buildings so as to maintain a consistent theme within the heritage area.

To the Chairman and Directors of the Board of the British Columbia Heritage Trust, and

To the Provincial Secretary and
Minister of Government Services,
Province of British Columbia

I have examined the balance sheet of the British Columbia Heritage Trust as at 31 March 1985 and the statements of revenue and expenditure and surplus and changes in financial position for the year then ended. My examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests and other procedures as I considered necessary in the circumstances.

In my opinion, these financial statements present fairly the financial position of the Trust as at 31 March 1985 and the results of its operations and the changes in its financial position for the year then ended in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

British Columbia Heritage Trust

Notes to the Financial Statement

For the Year Ended 31 March 1985

1. The Trust

The British Columbia Heritage Trust is a Crown Corporation incorporated under the Heritage Conservation Act, R.S.B.C. 1979, Chapter 165, and is an agent of the Crown. The object of the Trust is to encourage and facilitate the protection and conservation of heritage property in the Province.

2. Significant Accounting Policies

- All costs incurred for the acquisition and restoration of property purchased or to be purchased by the Trust are capitalized whether the property has been or will be registered in the name of the Trust or of the Province. Costs incurred in restoring property sites purchased directly by the Province are charged to expenditure - capital projects.
- Due to the nature of the properties no provision is made for depreciation.
- Donated property is recorded at appraised value at the time of its receipt.

3. Administrative Costs

The Ministry of Provincial Secretary and Government Services provides certain staffing, accommodation and administrative services for the Trust at no cost. The cost of providing these services for the year ended 31 March 1985 amounted to approximately $170,000 (1984 - $133,000).

4. Commitments

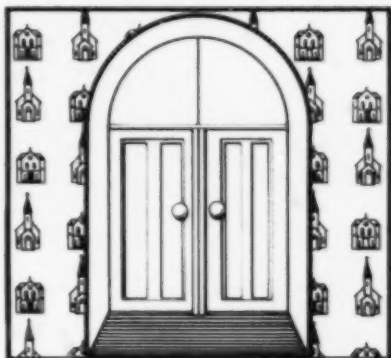

The Society had the following commitments at 31 March 1985.

	1985	1984
Grants	$2,018,965	$1,487,200
Other	28,470	—
	$2,047,435	$1,487,200

5. Comparative Figures

Certain 1984 amounts have been reclassified to conform with the presentation adopted in 1985, with no resulting effect on surplus.

Religious Buildings Restoration

This program assists with exterior restoration of designated heritage buildings of a religious nature such as churches, synagogues and temples. All restorations must be historically accurate. The Trust may provide funds of up to 50 per cent of the exterior restoration costs to a maximum of $25,000.

 University of British Columbia,
 Vancouver*

This grant makes possible a video recording of the historic cannery sites on the coast of British Columbia.

Hat Creek Archaeological Inventory $4,672.
*Anthropology Department,
 University of British Columbia,
 Vancouver*

This grant permitted completion of the Taseko Lakes regional inventory. The correlation of environmental data and archaeological sites considerably furthers our knowledge of this culture.

Archaeology of Straits Salish Reefnetting $7,500.
*Anthropology Department,
 University of Victoria*

The archaeology of reefnetting is essentially unknown. This grant permitted the inventory of reefnetting sites and the determination of their association with processing camps. This data will be used in relation to the economy and social organization of the Salish.

Inventory of Rock Art Sites $15,000.
District of Kitimat

This grant assisted with an inventory of coastal rock art sites between 53° and 54° north latitude on mainland British Columbia.

Northwest Coast Native Architecture

$19,000.

*School of Architecture,
University of British Columbia,
Vancouver*

To assimilate many sources of information on native architecture of the northwest coast, including published and unpublished journals, narratives, photographs and archaeological records, and to analyze them from an architectural point of view. The result will be one or more publications with architectural graphics, photographs, notes and text providing a clear picture of the physical aspects of the architecture.

Inventory of Rock Art Sites, Kitimat

Student Employment

The objectives of the program are to provide British Columbia university students with opportunities to develop skills in heritage conservation and to provide employment that makes a demonstrable contribution to the heritage of B.C.

The type of projects funded during the 1984-85 fiscal year included the following:

- special projects and displays
- background and historical research for conservation of buildings or objects
- preparation of architectural "as found" drawings

Commemorative Monuments

The British Columbia Heritage Trust wishes to stimulate interest in British Columbia's heritage by funding commemorative monuments recognizing people, places and events of national and provincial significance.

Subjects for commemoration may be suggested by interested people and organizations.

Anyone may suggest a subject for marking if it meets the criteria outlined below:

- must be commemorative of people, places and events of national or provincial significance
- must be located in a publicly accessible location
- must be located in British Columbia
- must not be a duplication of an existing monument erected to this person, event, theme, etc., within the province

- must enhance the public's knowledge and understanding of our unique heritage
- design of the monument must be approved by the British Columbia Heritage Trust as being a suitable commemoration
- financial contribution of the British Columbia Heritage Trust must be appropriately noted on the monument
- a grant not to exceed 20 per cent of the total cost of the monument to a maximum of $15,000.

Capital Projects

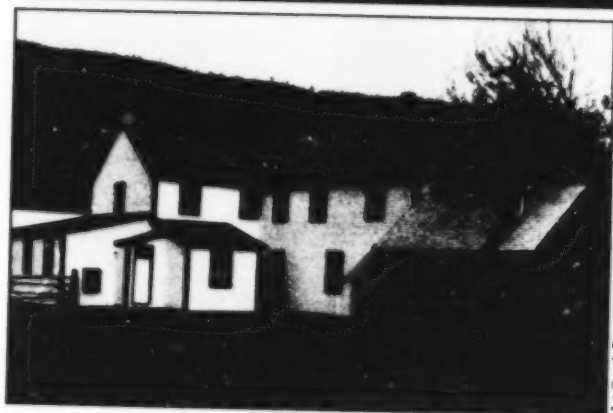

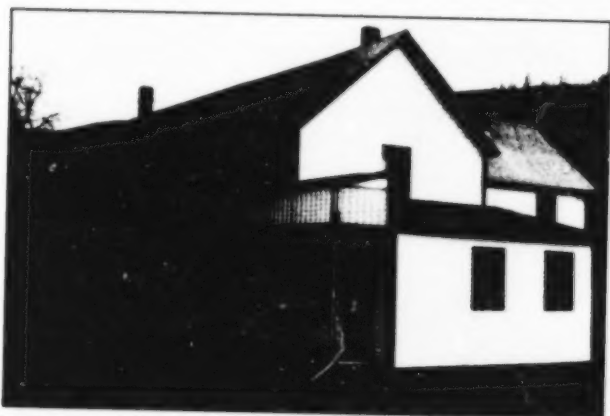

George Kerr drawing of the Grist Mill at Keremeos

Grist Mill, Keremeos

Built in 1876, the Grist Mill at Keremeos is thought to be one of the first water-powered flour mills in British Columbia. Over the past year construction of the water wheel flume and tail rail has been completed. Some stabilization work on the house has been undertaken, with the view that this building will eventually be the interpretation centre.

The South Similkameen Museum Society co-ordinated the work of a student, who gave tours of the site and continued research on the grist mill.

The site is open to visitors from June to September.

Hat Creek Ranch, Cache Creek

Hat Creek Ranch

This historic site near Cache Creek served as a hotel on the Cariboo Wagon Road between 1887 and 1901. The exterior of Hat Creek House will be restored and the site opened for self-guided tours. Interpretation of the development of ranching is planned.

Over the past year the restoration of McLean Cabin (1863) was completed. Planning for the site continues, with restoration of the other structures planned for 1986/87.

Application Procedures

Applications for grants from the British Columbia Heritage Trust may be made at any time. Some programs require the use of application forms, whereas for others application is by letter. All applications, with the exception of the publications and scholarship programs, should be submitted by the local governing council. The Trust will, however, consider applications from heritage groups or societies provided they have the endorsement of the local government council.

The British Columbia Heritage Trust is assisted in its work by staff of the Heritage Conservation Branch. The Director of the Heritage Conservation Branch acts as Secretary to the Trust. All enquiries should be addressed to the British Columbia Heritage Trust, but may then be referred to the Branch to provide technical assistance in the following areas: architecture, archaeology, planning and establishing a heritage conservation program. Branch staff may be in contact with applicants for further information prior to submission of applications to the Board of Directors. Formal applications to the Trust are taken forward to the Board of Directors meetings by the Secretary/Director of the Heritage Conservation Branch and the Program Manager of the Trust.
